PROFESSIONAL COMMONALITY

Atlanta, GA – November 2005: One of the most efficient methods used to strip and clean unwanted paint, rust, graffiti, and hardened ‘gook’ is to propel baking soda, at incredible pressure, directly at the site. One of Amware’s newest client has harnessed this phenomenon and has branded their manufacturing business as “Your Source for Soda-blasting Equipment”.

Across the United States they train professionals in their methodology, provide the necessary equipment, and maintain regional supply caches of parts, accessories, and consumables. Their services may be in use right in your own neighborhood; the art of Soda-blasting has become the preferred method of a diverse group of professionals:

- Automotive Restoration & Parts Recyclers
- Real Estate & Historic Building Renovation
- City, School, and Town Graffiti Clean-up Operations
- Restaurant Equipment Specialists
- Fire Restoration Experts
- Factory Maintenance Supervisors
- Heavy Equipment Dealers

Their company has a demonstrable and extensive experience with a variety of applications, and Amware has been introduced into their supply chain so to provide their Contractors and Clientele with quick supply turnaround. Amware's Craftsmen are recognized professionals that understand attention to every detail – this commonality amongst our two companies is what has brought us together to service their vast base of professionals.
