RELATIONSHIPS BUILT ON ANTICIPATING CUSTOMER NEEDS

Jacksonville, FL – November 2005: The first rail cars of Oriented Strand Board, belonging to our newest customer, arrived this morning at our Jacksonville, Florida facility. This client is touted as one of the twenty largest forest products wholesalers in the United States; In 2004 they shipped more than 21,000 truckloads and 8,600 carloads of product.

This volume can be attributed to their customer's need for a full range of products being brought to Market. In response, Amware's client offers a full lineup from lumber to boards to plywood and presents each in a variety of widths, thicknesses, and grades.

And they pride themselves on customer service – “We strive to not merely meet customer needs, but to anticipate them. That takes a special relationship. A partnership that is built on experience, understanding, and trust”.

Their passion has resulted in a need for rail cars of forestry products to be shipped to Jacksonville, and then distributed on flatbed trucks to the end consumers. Who better to provide these services than a 15 year veteran logistics company with an equal appreciation for customer service and a track record anticipating customers' needs? Amware's Craftsman are equal to the task and hold themselves to the same high standards our customers demand of their own!
