PARTNERSHIP IN THE WAKE OF A HURRICANE

Jacksonville, FL – September 2004: Hurricanes Bonnie, Charlie, Frances, and Ivan have devastated the sunny south. Amware Logistics, a recognized member of CSX's TRANSFLO PREMIER PROVIDER network of companies, will be transloading and distributing a new generation of oriented strand board (OSB) into the area to help provide assistance to rebuild the state of Florida.

Centerline railcars have already begun rolling into Amware's Jacksonville terminal for unloading and cross-docking onto Amware trailers for delivery throughout Florida.

"This is a brand-new market for this client", says Keith Harter, General Manager at Amware's Jacksonville facility. "They have a patent on a re-engineered version of an old standard OSB, which makes cutting and sizing much easier. Through discussions, I learned that contractors seem to prefer their products to existing OSB.

The ease of use will surely help in the re-development of Florida's infrastructure in the wake of the recent devastating storms".
