FINISHED PAPER CROSS-DOCK

Jacksonville, FL – May 2004: Material handling and distribution of pulp and paper products continues to be a time-honored tradition for Amware's craftsmen. Amware's Jacksonville facility was recently awarded a bid to perform storage and cross-dock services for one of the world's premier finished paper distributors.

Our client, in conjunction with CH Robinson Worldwide, has sourced 75 truckloads of coated and cut paper from as far north as Philadelphia in this initial purchase order. The individual product shipments will be consolidated by Amware craftsmen into container-load quantities for international distribution.

Amware is playing a key role in our client's supply chain. By consolidating shipments from the multitude of manufacturers participating in this project, Amware ensures that the customer receives accurate, and damage-free shipments at worldwide locations. Outsourcing with Amware Logistics Services is an effective way to save money on operating costs and reduce worker overload; for instance, this client has discovered that freight management in and out of Jacksonville, Florida is streamlining its international supply chain activities.

This project is only the beginning of our client's relationship with its customer, and lays the groundwork for a solid relationship for Amware and our Jacksonville-based craftsmen in the coming months and years.
